ICAR at a glance

The Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR) is an autonomous organization under the Department of Agricultural Research and Education, Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare, Government of India. Formerly known as the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research, it was established on July 16, 1929, as a registered society under the Societies Registration Act, 1860, in pursuance of the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Agriculture. The ICAR is headquartered in New Delhi.

ICAR is the apex body for coordinating, guiding, and managing research and education in agriculture, including horticultural sciences, fisheries sciences, and animal sciences. With a vast network comprising 113 ICAR institutes and 77 agricultural universities across the country, it represents one of the largest national agricultural research, education and extension systems in the world.

ICAR has been instrumental in driving the Green Revolution and spearheading the modernization of Indian agriculture through its innovative research, education, and extension initiatives. The Council currently addresses the challenge of ensuring nutritional security for India's growing population, despite constraints such as limited cultivable land, increasing water scarcity, and the escalating impacts of global warming.
